Swam Under The Blazing Oil
A Wallace Man's B.E.M.

But for his skill as a swimmer, and his presence of mind, Mr. Charles B. Robinson of 16 Grange Road, Wallasey, would not have been attending a recent investiture at Buckingham Palace.

Mr. Robinson was awarded a B.E.M. for his services in the rescue of a man from a burning house in the early part of 1943.

At the time of the fire, Mr. Robinson was in the house and saw the flames. He immediately opened the door and saw a man in a state of panic. He jumped over the wall and swam across the street to the house, where he rescued the man.

Mother Dead—Father Called Up
M.P.s And Treatment Of Parents

Mr. Tom Brown (Lab., Ince), asked the Minister of Pensions, in the Commons, to-day, the number of applications for pensions for mothers of single men and women killed in the war since September 2, 1939, to December 31, 1943, and the number of refusals to grant pensions to satisfy his wonder why they were in need.

Mr. Brown stated that approximately 47,000 cases of mothers of single men and women killed in the war since September 2, 1939, to December 31, 1943, had been granted pensions ranging from 5s a week to £120 a year and awarded in more than 10,000 cases.

The woman who was awakened by the intruders told the police that she was alone in the house with her young child, her husband being away on a night watch.

"GAVE UP KEYS"

Shortly afterwards there was a loud knock at the front door, and a man entered. This is the police. Open up, he said. The woman, who was alone in the house with her young child, her husband being away on a night watch, gave up the keys to the intruders.
